TROUBLE FOR TWO.

The Editors of the Richmond "Whig" and "State" Suddenly Disappear From View.

Everybody Believes They Have Gone to Fight a Duel in Earnest.

Warrants For Their Arrest in the Hands of the Police-The Whole City Excited.

Full Text of the Article Which Caused the Encounter.

Special Disputch. RICHMOND, VA., June 21 .- There is considerable excitement in this city to-day over a duel which is expected to take place some time during the day between William C. Elam, editor of the Whig, the organ of the readjuster party, and Richard F. Bierne, owner and editor of the State, the organ of the democratic party. Warrants for the arrest of both parties were sworn out early this morning by Officer Depriest, in consequence of a severe editorial in the Whia this morning denouncing the editor of the State. Police have visited both newspaper offices to lice have visited both newspaper offices to execute the warrants, but the parties cannot be found.

The Whig containing the article in question was handed to Mr. Bierne while at breakfast this morning at his home in Ashland, sixteen miles from kichmond. It is said that as soon as he read the article he immediately got up from the table, excused himself to several gentlemen who were breakfasting with him, and has not since been seen. It is believed that he will challenge Mr. Elam, and, if so, a duel is likely to be fought before sunsets.

Mr. Elam was in the city last night at 10 o'clock, but he has not since been seen here. The impression is that the two gentlemen are in Hanover or Henrico, and that an arrangement for a hostile meeting is being mada. There is a great demand for copies of the Whig containing the article, and the affair is being generally discussed. The fight seems inevitable and will no doubt take place, as the parties are out of the reach of the officers of the law acquainted with the difficulty.

The article referred to it as follows: of the law acquainted with the difficulty. The article referred to is as follows:

A FEW NECESSARY REMARKS, The White, which is the organ of Boss Mahone and his hail-fallows-well-met from among ne ro politicians and write renegades of the same order, is forever accusing the democrats of ruising the cry of "nigger." That the democrats have never done, and the Whig knows it !—Stote.

done, and the Whig knows it!—Stole.

We have never accused the democrats of saying anything of the kind, and the State knows it. We have repeatedly accused, and do now accuse, the bourbons and funders of raising the cry of "nigger, nigger!" and we say that they are now using that cry with all their might—the State itself, while affecting to repel the charge, demonstrating its own complicity in it by the following:

That word, however, might still serve another purpose than that of opprobrium to the segro or colored man. For a long time petry Boss Mahone has striven through his organ to find a name for himself and his followers. "Liberal" and "administration" have been tried without success. Let the Mahoneites selso at once their favorite and characteristic name—" Nigger."

We have indicated the offersion of the property of the selection o

We have indicated the offensive pronuncia-tion of the word rather than its spelling in using "nigger" instead of "negro"—the lat-ter, as the State knows, being the form we in-variable use in our own references to the colored man; and everybody knows that that pronunciation of the word (generally with some adjective still more harsh prefixed) is the one employed usually by the bourbon funthe one employed usually by the bourbon fun-ders, not so much in denunciation of the col-ored people as of the readjusters, the latter since the conflict be

But the State further says: But the State further says:

In making this comment upon Boss Mabone we wish it to be distinctly understood by all his corrupt henchmen that what we say and have said of him we mean and have meant of them, personsonally, individually, collectively, or in any other sense they may choose to feel. A more victous, corrupt, and depraded gang never followed any adventurer than those who hang about the petty boss. These fellows it is, who, having never a scrople in promoting mixed marriages and mixed schools, and in opposing honest white men—honest colored men, we trust—in the strong desire to turn aside so dire an evil, accuse their opponents of using their own offensive word, "nigger!"

Now we might be content with simply giv-

Now we might be content with simply givng the lie to all this—as we do generally for the readjuster party, and especially in so far as its charges are meant to apply to the Whig, or anybody connected with the Whig in a responsible way; but we wish further to say that the whole article from which we make that the whole article from which we make these extracts is a tissue of general denuncia-tion which would humiliate us if it were not accompanied by lofty pretensions of superior-ity in manners, morals, and letters that are laughably ridiculous coming from a source so pitiable in all moral and intellectual re-sources, and we wish further to see that the pitiable in all moral and intellectual resources; and we wish further to say that this denunciation is made with an air of such utter ferocity that it might alarm us but for our recollection of the fact that the hero (the Bombastes Furiceso) of the State has the singular regulation of having illustrated his untamed valor only by going upon the field—without caps! while, on the other hand, the humble personage who now, on this occasion, has the honor to represent the Whig, its editorial corps, and the readjuster party is at least reported to have been so rash once upon a time as not to have forgotten the caps—falling before a shot which he met in full face.

Consequently—unintimidated and not ut-terly crushed—we laugh at the State's vitu-peration and vaporing, and beg to remark that not only does the State lie, but its "editor and owner" lies, and the poor creature who may have actually written the article in question also lies—all jointly and severally—deliberately, knowingly, maliciously, and with the inevitable cowardice that is always voked with insolent brayado.

Numbers of persons have inquired at the newspaper offices to-day and to-night in quest of information relative to the duel, which seems inevitable. Wild rumors have been in circulation about the difficulty, and have been in circulation about the difficulty has almany persons believe that a difficulty has al-ready taken place. The excitement in Richready taken place. The excitement in Richmond to-night is intense and has been so all day. The principals to the affair have been diligently searched for by the officers of the law, but they have owaded arrest, and there seems to be no prospect of the police successfully interfering. It is believed that Mr. Elam received the challenge to-day about noon, and that a meeting will take place early in the morning near Richmond.

Gen. Durbin Ward and His Friend, Ex-Senator Thurman, Get Left.

Ward Berates the Convention For Not Recognizing His Thirty Years' Service.

The State Ticket-New Hampshire Balloting-Political Points.

COLUMBUS, OHIO, June 21.-The democratic state convention convened at 10 o'clock this morning. There was a larger crowd here than was ever seen before on any similar occasion, and the opera house was filled to its utmost. The weather was sultry and rainy. The contest between Ward and Hoadly for governor waged flercely during the morning hours. The convention was called to order by Clark Irvine, chairman of the central committee, and the reports of the committees appointed last night were heard. All preliminary organization being dispensed with, the tion. John McSweeney, of Wooster, was introduced as the permanent chairman, and was received with much enthusiasm.

He spoke briefly in the line of exhortation and predicted a democratic victory, but touched no issue. The floor of the convention hall became so overrun with speciators that business was suspended until the delegates were provided with seats. On the resumption of business, the committee on resolutions not being ready to report, the convention proceeded to the nomination of governor. There was great delay in the presentation of names.

Efforts were made to proceed to balloting Efforts were made to proceed to balloting without names, but after a long wait Senator Thurman crowded on to the stage smid the wildest enthusiasm. He followed T. E. Powell and seconded the nomination of Gen. Durbin Ward. He made an able plea for the recognition of the services of Gen. Ward, warned the convention about tying themselves to any one issue, and announced that the party had always been avoyed assists superpart leads. always been arrayed against sumptuary legis-lation and should continue in that way. The names of Messrs. Hoadly and Geddes were then presented in order.

Trouble was reached on the first ballet when Butler county was called. This county had a divided delegation, and the result was a call of the counties to do away with the unit rule, which was carried amid great confesion, showing the strength of the leading fusion, showing the strength of the leading candidates to be about even. The ballot was not completed until 1:30 o'clock, and resulted as follows: Hoadly, 290; Ward, 261; Geddes, 77, and Denver, 4.

The second ballot proceeded until Butler county was reached, when the same trouble again ensued. After the call had been con-luded some changes began for Hoadly, and the greatest excitement prevailed, delegates climbing over each other and storming the platform before the result of the ballot could announced.

A motion to nominate Hoadly by seclma-tion was carried. He had in the neighgor-hood of 350 votes, 319 being necessary to a

Judge Hoadly soon appeared and accepted the nomination in a brief address, during

He esteemed it a great compliment to be nominated over more worthy candidates be nominated over more worthy candidates and believed that the convention would place men on a platform whose leading prin-ciples were personal liberty, self control in temperance matters, and a license system.

The convention then proceeded to the nom Warwick, of Stark county, was selected by acclamation before the ballot was concluded. De Witt Coolman, of Portage county, the other candidate, was withdrawn.

The work of nomination was frequently interrupted and delayed. In the meantime Gen. Ward was brought in and made a speech, in which he severely robused the party for failing to recognize his thirty years' service. Not to be daunted he announced himself publicly as a candidate for United States senator. A speech by Judge Geddes was in a somewhat different yein, though both pledged fealty to the party. Before the other nomina-tions were made the committee on resolu-tions submitted a platform, which was

Relative to the tariff the platform says: We favor a tariff for revenue limited to the necessities of a government economically ad-ministered, and so adjusted in its application as to prevent unequal burdens; encourage productive interests at home, and afford just empensation to labor, but not to create or foster monopolies.
On the license question the platform says:

The democratic party is, as it always has been, opposed to sumptuary legislation and unequal taxation in any form, and is in favor of the largest liberty of private conduct con-sistent with the public welfare and the rights of others, and of regulating the liquor traffic and providing against ovils resulting there-from by a judicious and properly graded

The convention continued in session without recess either at noon or in the evening and the scenes and confusion at times we and the scenes and confusion at times were remarkable. state of mind has been more or less a matter of inference since her recent arrival from Europe, as, under the advice of friends, she has steadily refused to be interviewed, and in fact reporters have been disinclined to intrude on her during what must have been a period of great grief to her. She was accompanied here by her brother-in-law from New Mexico, who remained with her during her visit, and gave special directions for the legal peoceedings against her husband. A REPUBLICAN reporter who saw Gen. Ruggles yesterday, was told by that officer that Mrs. Nickerson felt greatly indebted "to the gentlemen of the press" for not annoying her, and for their fairness and their expressions of sympathy. The lady had, of course, been greatly weighed down by her anguish of mind, and was disposed to give way at times, but she was a plucky little woman and would not stop until her goed name, and the rights of herself and daughter had been fully redeemed and protected." As an evidence of her high spirit the general said: "The day after she was apprised of the divorce she left Paris for the United States, and within four weeks had filed her suit to set saide the decree." The day after she was apprised of the divorce she left saris for the United States, and within four weeks had filed her suit to set aside the decree."

As to the transfer of the major's home to Miss Lena Carter, Gen. Ruggles intimated that it bore so much fraud on its face that there should be no difficulty in having it annulled. He added significantly that he had not leed in an interview with Miss Carter, in The Republican, that that had deemed it prudent to say nothing about the transfer. The character of the transfer and its manifest purpose could be judged by the fact that when Maj. Nickerson went into the Philadelphia court room on the 29th of May and came face to face with his wife, accompanied by her friends, including himself (Gen. E.), he immediately left for Washington and executed the deed of trust which was dated May 31, the 30th being a national holiday, and, therefone, a dies non.

that she was greatly shocked to observe the change in her face.

"Why," said the lady, "she looked ten years older than she did the week she started to Europe, and she told me her mental sufferings had been almost more than she could lings had been almost more than she could bear. In spite of all she can do I believe she still loves that rascally husband of hers, though of course she says she would never live with him again. She cried so when I was with her that I cried myself. She told me that on her departure for Europe she had a presentiment of contesting wence. she had a presentiment of something wrong. Her husband's plea was that he wanted her to go away for economy, so that he might com-plete the payments on the Rhode Island ave-nue house that was to be a home for them and their little daughter, but in her heart she felt that all was not right, and that something that all was not right, and that something awful was going to happen, though she never dreamed what it was. She brushed it aside as a foolish fear, and thought no more about it, and her husband's first letters were so affectionate that they entirely disarmed her of all suspicion of his treachery.

Mrs. Nickerson evinced a special feeling of contempt for Miss Lona Carter, and her eyes flashed fire while referring to the person she
